As might have been predicted, the Charter granted by the Imperial Government to the fully sustains the reputation made by the two British North Borneo Company has called forth some adverse criticism in England. The school of politicians whose creed is interesting description, and a striking view of bounded by self-interest and who would fain hasten the dismemberment of the Empire in order to get rid of colonial burdens, are of course horrified to find the Government undertaking a new responsibility. Among

But on moral grounds there is nothing to be said. against the Charter, and on grounds of expedience it is also perfectly justifiable. The country lies practically fallow and twaste, it was willingly ceded for a consideration by the nominal suzorain, and the few inhabitants hail the change of government with unfeigned delight. No one is wronged, though Spain and Holland are slightly disappointed that they could not keep away intruders upon what they regarded as their reserves.

A good deal is made out of the concession in the Charter to farm the right to sell opium The Speciator evidently considers this equivalent to establishing a new oplum monopoly like that of the Indian Government, whereas presenting the Eastern trade."-On the motion office by doing so as Excer as Possible, it simply means that the Company may aliver Alterations can be received until 11th permit farms like those of this Colony and Singapore to be established for the connected with the East, requesting the formasale of the drug. This blunder just serves to show how little it wwledge these critics have of the subject of ; bich they hastily write in condemnation. Hardly less unpractical is the idea mooted by the Morning Post that laws directly contrary to those of CHN BRINSMEAD & SONS' recently Great Britain and indirectly sunctioning slavery may be allowed to prevail in Company's territory. Section 76. he Charter sets forth that "the Company shall to the best of its power discourage, and, as far as Works Emfton Road, Kentish Town, N.W., London. | may be practicable, abolish by degrees any evetem of domestic servitude existing among the tribes of the coast or the interior of Borneo, and no foreigner, whether European; Chinese, or other, shall be allowed to hold slaves of anyl kind in the Company's territory." The Post complains that this amounts to a discouragement of slavery only, instead of a positive prohibition, and thereupon. proceeds-to-found-an-attack on the present Government for inconsistency. That charge may be true enough in some respecial no doubt, but with that we are not now concerned. We are concerned only with the provision in the Charter about slavery. It would probably be impossible to abolish domestic servitude in Borneo instantly, certainly without commencing a war of extermination, but it may be done gradu-Nortce.-To avoid delay in the execution of ally and that is clearly what is meant by the that a step like that of granting a Charter to a new Commercial Company in the East could be taken without exciting jealousy, and the hostility arising out of that feeling had no-

> SUPREME COURT, 9th January. -

and Holmes, moved ex parts, on behalf of the defendant, for a rule calling upon the plaindoubt been calculated on beforehand by the tiff to show ause why the verdict should not be set asus had a new trial granted, or judgment be entered for the defendant. His first point was that the cheque was drawn out of the colony and was not sufficiently stamped as a bill of exchange. He also submitted that on his Lordship's rading the verdical ought to have been for the defendant. His Lordship's ruling was that the cheque was worthless until was filled in by Mr. Brandao in Hongkong. and his Lordship also directed the jury that in point of law the plaintiff, taking it in its im perfect state, bad notice of the nature of the Wo, and also that whatever implied authority had ever existed for filling up the cheque had been expressly revoked by Mr. Pitman's refusal Return of visitors to the City Hall Museum for to fill it up. That was his Lordship's direction to the jary, and on that the verdiet ought to have been that there was no cheque and no contract at all. In the next place, his Lordship that this cheque had been given part of the deposit money referred to the conditions of sale the defendant was entitled to a verdict; that it had never become forfoitable. and from the failure of the contract, had never become payable. a the other hand, his Lord ship directed them that if they found it was riven as part of the price of the Woi-sing ottery farm, they might find for the plaintiff The evidence, however, clearly showed that it was paid in respect of the deposit and not of the price. To show that being part of the deposit it was not forfeitable, the contract having fall through, the learned counsel said it was like the case of a man who entered into a contract to take a public house at a rent of £10 and to give a deposit of £1,000 as security that he would buy his beer from a particular brower. If the contract fell through the deposit would not be forfeitable, since the person who made it would never have had an opportunity committing a breach of the conditions which was made to secure. Supposing the chaque was given as part of the price it would not be forwitable, unless there was a condition to that effect, except.apon an action for damages.

I had it read through by the interpreter. I told them it might do. but yet might be improved upon, and that if they wished to be quite sure what they were loing they had better have an English contract drawn up. In the first place time was not of the essence of the contract, the property was not very clearly defined, and there was no forfeiture clause of the bargain money. SIR RUTHERFORD ALCOLK ON THE OPIUM TRAFFIC. Sir Rutherford Alcock contributesean article to the current number of the Nineteenth Century which is entitled "Opium and Common Sense," which is worthy of more than a passing glance. It is a fair resume of the subject, and the author keeps well to his text on the "common sense" side. Sir Rutherford Alcock may fairly be taken may attach more than ordinary weight. So much is stated on both sides which bears the impress: of heated remarks that the opinions of one whose sympathies are in neither direction, and at the titled to more than ordinary consideration. The author commences by running over all the old ground from Commissioner Lin's time: and even further back, and gives it as his opinion that if there had been no Opium the first China was of 1842 would have occurred precisely the "il d there been no Opium or illegal trade of any kind in question the same causes would have led to the same result." He then proceeds to give some idea of who first brought Opium to China, and at what date, the quantity grown there, &c. He deals rather severely with the raply of Li Hung-Chang to the Society for the Suppression of the Opium Trade, characterising it as a "triumph of misrepresentation." He proceeds, and states: What efforts China is now making I cannot say; but of this we may feel gove that if they in any degree resemble those h' her than by Li Hung-chang himself and to Government in the past all right-minded men of this and every other country will decline to accept the general increase in the unchecked growth of the native plant over the larger half of China, away from all foreign influence or competition as an evi-... enforce the laws against the cultivation of the in London, or at the principal Ports'of India, poppy in China, and otherwise check the use of China, and Australia. the Chinese Government and of their apologist to appear in open court with clean hands as an a case for further argument, and in no dourt of Policies issued for sums not exceeding £5,000 equity could such a plaintiff escape being nonsuited by a judge or jury of honest men. One more extract of Sir R. Alcock's 'view of the Government relations. He says:-"I should be glad, in common with many others, if it were possible, without aggravating the ovil and bringing new and worse agencies of mischief into play, that the Indian Government should be relieved of all participation in the growing, manufacturing and selling of the drag, which is not the proper function of a Government." Altogether the article is a fair critique on the relations of the opium question, and if the author does not express his bwn opinions on all the phises be has given the public a fair review of the whole question. - London & China Express, Nothing, says the United Service Gazette, has yet been settled in regard to the reduction of artillery in India which is being urged by the Vicerory's Council on the Home Government, The proposal from Simla is to dispense with four horse, one field, and six garrison batteries : but the military authorities at home are very much opposed to the reduction, which, nevertheless, will probably be carried out. When it is desired to forward letters to the United States by a sailing ship which is not notified as carrying a mail, it is only necessary to post the letters in the ordinary way, marked with the name of the ship, and prepaid 10 cents per half ounce as usual. The Post Office then undertakes the duty of obtaining notice of departure and despatching the correspondence. It is requested that the letters be posted if possible at least one day before the date fixed for sailing.
